

Notice of Website Renewal

Thank you for visiting the corporate website of Pelnox, Ltd.

We are pleased to announce the renewal of our corporate site.

We have reviewed the design and the page structure to make the website easier for visitors to search our products and to make the visitors feel more familiar to us.

We changed mainly as following:

1. Easy-to-use Product Search Navigation

Product information is now displayed on the top page, making it easier to access.

In addition, a new product map has been added to enable access to product information that better matches the needs of our customers.

2. New Engineer's Blog

We have added new engineer's blog (Pelnox-TECH BLOG) to keep our customers informed about new products, technical information, and corporate culture.

3. Glossary Page

We have added a glossary page to help you easily find information on various technical terms related to our products.

We will make every effort to make our website more useful and informative than ever before, and we look forward to your continued patronage.